TOUCHING MEMORIAL SERVICES FOR BOURBON COUNTY HERO.

The memory of Capt. Reuben B. Hutchcraft, of Paris, who fell in battle in France on July 6, while leading his company in a desperate charge against the Huns, was further accentuated in befitting memorial exercises held in the Paris Christian Church, Sunday afternoon. The auditorium, which was filled with friends of the brave patriot who gave his life in the supreme sacrifice for his country, was suitably decorated for the occasion. A large service flag, containing seventy-five stars, three of them of gold, representing the sacrifices of three Bourbon County members of the congregation, was suspended over the rostrum. The gold stars represented Capt. Reuben Hutchcraft, Bishop Batterton and Charles Adair.

The choir of the church sang Capt. Hutchcraft's favorite hymns, "Nearer, My God, To Thee," "There Is A Land Of Pure Delight," and "It Is Well With My Soul." Rev. Frank M. Tinder, pastor of the North Middletown Christian church, read a chapter from the Scriptures, after which Rev. Dr. R. H. Crossfield, of Lexington, President of the Transylvania University, under whom Capt. Hutchcraft graduated, invoked the Divine blessing on the family and friends and paid a glowing tribute to the life and character of the deceased soldier. Dr. Crossfield was followed by the principal speaker of the afternoon, Rev. W. E. Ellis, pastor of the Paris Christian Church, who, in an address pronounced by all who heard it to have been one of the most eloquent and touching ever delivered by this distinguished speaker, paid a masterly tribute full of deep feeling and beautiful language, to the memory of Capt. Hutchcraft.

Twenty-five Boys Scouts and the members of the Paris Lodge, No. 2, F. & A. M., of which Capt. Hutchcraft had long been a worthy member, attended the exercises, and occupied prominent places in the audience. At the conclusion of the exercises Earl Swearingen sounded "taps," while the Boy Scouts stood at attention.

A LETTER FROM A "FRENCH WAR ORPHAN."

Mr. L. D. Harris, of the firm of Harris & Speakes, of this city, recently received the following letter from a French war widow and her son, attesting their gratitude for his kindness, and expressing their best wishes for the coming year. The letter which was written from Epernay, under date of January 3, reads as follows:

Epernay, January 3, 1919.

"Sir: In behalf of my children I wish to express my best wishes for the following year, praying that it will not be a sad one like last year was to me, for I lost my all.

"I will do my best to raise my two children worthily, and repeat to them that it is to you that we give thanks.

"It is from the bottom of my heart that I thank you, and I pray you to receive my best wishes for good New Year.

"Receive, sir, my sincere salutations,

"Widow Hery.
Rue Montlery,
No. 33 Epernay,
Marne, France."

Accompanying the letter to Mr. Harris was a post card, written by a little son of the French woman who had been deprived of her support by the horrors of the war. The little one's message is as follows:

"Sir: Mamma has told me that you are my benefactor. I send to you my best wishes for the year 1919, and thank you at the same time for your goodness. I am your little protegee, who will never forget you.
"Gaston Hery."

KENTUCKY WILL HAVE TO ACCEPT NEW TELEPHONE RATES

Under existing laws, Kentucky must accept the newly published schedule affecting long distance telephone rates according to Chairman Laurence B. Finn, chairman of the State Railroad Commission.

The commission in Kentucky has no jurisdiction in the matter, although some ten or more States have succeeded in suspending the operation of the new rates promulgated by Postmaster General Burleson. The only recourse is for a citizen of the State to bring action through the courts to test the Postmaster General's right to fix interstate rates.

"Postmaster General Burleson declares that the States have no right in the matter at all," Mr. Finn said. "The State commission seems to disagree with him on the principle that each State has the power to regulate rates within its border. It is ridiculous that the Kentucky commission has no power to act under the law. I have been trying for a number of years to get a bill through the Legislature giving us this power, but have not yet succeeded.

Eternal Rest Comes to Paris' Foremost Citizen, John T. Hinton.

JOHN T. HINTON.

Full of years and honors, having lived a long and useful life in a community where he did a great deal of good, death came to one of the most distinguished citizens of the city, former Mayor John T. Hinton, business man, legislator and city official for many years, at his home on High Street, Friday morning at three o'clock. Mr. Hinton's death came peacefully following a long illness of Bright's disease and heart trouble, from which he had been a sufferer.

Mr. Hinton has been in declining health for several weeks, or since the sad death of his granddaughter, Mrs. Wm. M. Talbot, who was a victim of pneumonia. He was devoted to his grandchildren and the taking away of this attractive and lovable young woman greatly depressed him. However, he remained up and about his home until Thursday morning, when he told members of his family that he would remain in his bed. During the day his wife and children were with him and despite the fact that he realized that his end was but matter of a few hours, he retained his faculties to a remarkable degree, and talked freely with his family. Thursday evening he told his wife and children good-bye, impressing on them the fact that he realized better than they that the end was near. Shortly after midnight Thursday, Mr. Hinton went to sleep and at three o'clock Friday morning he passed away peacefully without gaining consciousness. His death was attributed to heart disease.

This is an age of progress and the man who has forged ahead and made a place for himself in the foremost ranks of the business and official life of his home city and the State is the man of initiative, the man who can formulate his ideas and make beginnings, in short, the man whose energies is on a par with his desires. This style of man gets what he goes after and he makes of success not an accident but a logical result.

Of this type of citizenship Mr. John T. Hinton was an able and worthy representative. He was born in this city on the site of the new home now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. William Clarke, on Pleasant Street, on January 19, 1837. The old home in which he was born was occupied for many years as a residence by Mr. and Mrs. John McGrain, and was for years one of the landmarks of Paris.

Mr. Hinton was a son of Richard and Elizabeth (Marston) Hinton, the former of whom claimed the State of Virginia as the place of his nativity. He emigrated from the Old Dominion to the county of Bourbon, when a young man. He was hatter by trade and was for some time engaged in that line of business in the city of Paris. Mrs. Hinton was born in Maryland, where she was reared and came to Kentucky as a young girl. She was married to Mr. Hinton in this city. Mr. and Mrs. Hinton became the parents of ten children, among them being the son whose death is now being chronicled.

John T. Hinton availed himself of the educational advantages afforded in the public schools of Paris, such as they were at that time. At the age of sixteen he entered upon an apprenticeship at the trade of cabinet-making, under the preceptorship of Mr. George W. Davis, of Paris. At the end of four years he had become a skilled workman, and spent the following two years as an employee of his preceptor, Mr. Davis. In 1860 he engaged in the furniture and undertaking business in Paris, and continued the same with ever-increasing energy, patronage and success in his native city. He served as President of the Citizens' bank; vice-president of the Bourbon bank; director in the Agricultural Bank, these two institutions having been consolidated some years ago. He has been eminently successful in all his business enterprises, and as a citizen his loyalty and patriotism were of the most insistent order. He was an uncompromising Democrat, in his political convictions, and he had always taken an active part in the council of his party. He served with efficiency as a member of the City Council of Paris at different times during the past fifteen years. He served three terms as Mayor of the city of Paris, and proved a most satisfactory and popular administrator of the municipal affairs of the city. In 1895 he was elected to represent Bourbon County in the General Assembly of the State Legislature, and was twice elected as his own successor, the last two times without opposition. He was both popular and influential among his colleagues, and was instrumental in securing the passage of much important legislation for his district. For four years he was Chairman of the Democratic Committee of Bourbon County. He was appointed Chairman of the Charitable Institutions of the State by Governor Beckham two terms. He was President of the Paris Cemetery Company, having served in this capacity for over twenty years. Fraternally he was affiliated with the order of Odd Fellows, and was for many years a member of the Bourbon County Agricultural Society, and a director for years in the Society. Both he and his wife were zealous members of the Paris Christian church, Mr. Hinton serving as a deacon in the congregation since 1870. He had contributed in large measure to the civic and material progress of Paris, and the many fine residences and business blocks he had constructed added considerably to the general attractiveness of the city.

He was married in Paris, on the tenth of April, 1860, to Miss Elmeta Hamilton, a daughter of Henry Hamilton and a cousin of former Governor John Young Brown. To this union were born seven sons, four of whom are now living, Wm. O. Hinton, Edward T. Hinton, Albert Hinton, and John T. Hinton, Jr., all of whom have been associated in business with their father. Edward T. Hinton served for eight years as Police Judge of Paris. Mrs. Hinton was summoned to the life eternal in January, 1874. On the second of February, 1875, Mr. Hinton was united in marriage to Miss Mary G. Brown, a daughter of the late Mr. Elisha Brown, and also a cousin of former Governor John Young Brown. Mr. and Mrs. Hinton became the parents of one daughter, who died in infancy.

Fifty-nine years ago Mr. Hinton engaged in business for himself, opening up a furniture and undertaking establishment in a room where the Brooks-Snapp drug store now stands. He soon had acquired a large stock of goods and purchased the property which he occupied.

Shortly after he bought his business property a fire destroyed the structure together with the stock of goods, wiping out the savings of his life, all of which was a total loss, as he had no insurance on any of the property.

Not discouraged by his embarrassing financial predicament, Mr. Hinton soon arranged to rebuild his store room, and the present building now occupied by the Brooks & Snapp Drug Company was erected. He again entered the furniture and undertaking business and soon again built up a large and remunerative trade.

Nearly thirty years ago, Mr. Hinton, realizing that his business had outgrown the store building in which it was housed, acquired the large lot at the corner of Main and Sixth Streets, on which was erected the large and commodious three story brick structure which to-day is the home of the furniture and undertaking business of the J. T. Hinton Company.

Mr. Hinton was chosen as a delegate to represent the Seventh Congressional District at the Democratic National Convention at Chicago in 1892, when Grover Cleveland was nominated for the Presidency. In 1912 he was again selected as a delegate by the Seventh Congressional District Democrats to represent them at the Baltimore convention, at which time Woodrow Wilson was chosen as the Democratic nominee for President. In his political life he was unserving to duty and in his terms in office kept the interests of the citizens of Paris always in the forefront. During his years of his administration of the city's affairs no community was the fortunate possessor of a more careful, more painstaking or more conscientious official than John T. Hinton. He administered the city's business affairs economically and at the same time was ever ready to favor and to make ample expenditures for improvements believed to be necessary for the material growth and prosperity of Paris. At the expiration of his term as Mayor in January, 1918, he announced his retirement to private life, and stated that he was "out of politics." He turned over his business, with the exception of his real estate holdings, to his sons, who continued the business under the name of J. T. Hinton Company. It was always a matter of pride with Mr. Hinton that he had never invested a dollar of his money outside the city of Paris until he purchased the 650-acre farm then owned by the late George G. White, and at present occupied by Mr. John Brophy and family.

Mr. Hinton became a member of Bourbon Lodge I. O. O. F. in 1857, and had been a faithful member of that order for over sixty-two years. He was presented with a gold badge over twelve years ago by the lodge on reaching the golden anniversary of his membership in the order. For over forty years Mr. Hinton was a curator of the Transylvania University and the College of the Bible, at Lexington, and one of the most ardent supporters of those institutions. In every walk of life he was faithful, devoted to the people and the business life of Paris, and in truth, its foremost citizen.

The funeral was held at 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, with services conducted at the Paris Christian Church by the pastor, Rev. W. E. Ellis, the edifice being filled with a large crowd who came to pay their last tribute to his memory. In his address Rev. Ellis said, in part:

"I have known John T. Hinton for ten years; I have known both sides of his life. In politics and business, in the upbuilding of the city I have known him as the grave, courageous, strong upright man that he was, and in the social relation, in church work and all those amenities of life that make for friendship, the home ties and the good of the community, he was tender, loving and with a temperament like that of a woman. He loved the church, and his life was a part of the activities of the church. He was a noble man, loyal to the church, to his friends, to his state, county and community.

"It was his nature to give, and his numerous charities attest his Christian life. He bore malice toward no man and he was as forgiving as he was loveable. He loved peace and good order."

Following the services at the church the burial followed on the family lot in the Paris Cemetery, with the committal service rendered at the graveside by the order of Odd Fellows. The pallbearers were the officers of the Paris Christian church, of which Mr. Hinton had been a lifetime member and one of its most zealous supporters. All the business houses of the city were closed and their blinds closely drawn, during the hours of the funeral, from three to four o'clock, in compliance with a proclamation issued by Mayor E. B. January, and as a mark of esteem and a testimonial to the memory of the man who had done so much for his native town. Flags on public and private buildings were placed at half-mast.

Mr. Keith Vansant, who has been at Hampden, Va., has received his final discharge papers, and is now a guest of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. T. Vansant, in Paris. At the conclusion of his visit he will go to Norfolk, Va., where he will take a position in a large mercantile concern.

The 39th Artillery Train 84th Division reached Camp Mills, Long Island New York, Sunday afternoon, after disembarking from the American transport Siboney. The soldier boys are scheduled to arrive at Camp Taylor to-day for demobilization. Among the returning Kentucky soldiers in the outfit is Capt. William Collins, of North Middletown.

A post card from Seaman W. O. Pennington, of Paris, who was recalled a few days ago from a furlough to join his shipmates on the U. S. S. Oklahoma states: "Am sorry I did not get chance to pay you a call before going back to my station, but it came so suddenly I only had time to pack my grip and get to the train. We are no won our way to Cuba and Frisco Bay. When we return in April I will be mustered out of the service. This card is written on the ship far out at sea, on January 29th." The reverse side of the card bears a photograph of the Oklahoma's ice-covered guns and decks returning from France on a cold morning last winter. Ice covers everything from the big guns extending from the turret to the sides of the big ship, hanging in long icicles from the gun mounting, cordage, and everything to which it can cling.

When Spring Comes.

All signs point to an early spring. There is a message in the air that seems to herald the glad season. The early bird has made its welcome appearance and the buzz of the busy bee is often heard. It has even been said by some of the most observant Paris people that the bluebird had been heard singing around Paris. Welcome bluebird! There has been very little to complain of in regard to the winter, which has been a remarkably open and mild one. The only backward thing has been the influenza, almost a thing of the past.

Soon we will have the rains which will wash the house tops and clean the streets and hasten away from us the debris of the city. And the rains will also make a lobby of Pleasant Street and other places. Soon we will leave the stove and the heavy wraps and without the least reluctance we will leave the stove and the radiator in order to get outside and enjoy a wave of God's own sunshine, something every man and woman must have in order to preserve the least semblance of good health. Fresh air and sunshine, boons of inestimable value!

January has passed away rapidly. February will also go in a hurry, and in a few weeks the bare trees will breathe again and be clothed in vernal beauty, the bushes will bud forth with renewed vigor and the green carpets will be spread over Nature's playgrounds and her workshop floors as well and the creeks and the branches will carry glad messages to the rivers and the rivers to the ocean. Almost before we know it we will be calling for open doors and raised windows and we will go outdoors and inhaling the fresh air, will say, "Surely, this is good for mankind!"

All this is very cheery and perhaps very optimistic. But let us sound this warning: Winter's impurities in air are filtered in the spring. The closed houses meant doubtful atmosphere. The great outdoors offers a tempting welcome, but be careful of the welcome's aftermath! A slight cold, a drink of impure water, a breath of contamination, may spoil your favorable impression of the glad springtime. Eat good food, breathe freely through the nostrils, clothe yourself properly, drink only pure water, and you, too, will be able to say, in month or two, "Surely, this is the life."

Just A Friendly Tip!

Superintendent of Schools Caywood is proving himself the right man in the right place in his position, and we believe he must keep awake nights trying to think up things and conditions to improve the schools of Bourbon County. The News can give Mr. Caywood a quiet little tip that will do the teachers of the county more good than all the "rules and regulations" he can formulate.

Let him start the school year of 1919-1920 with the rigid rule of employing no teacher who does not subscribe to, pay for and read the local paper of the county in which he or she teaches. We believe the teachers of the county are well up in their work, but at the same time we are of the opinion that they are not well posted on current events. As a rule they read very little but their text books and know very little of what is going on next door to them. All the papers of the county should be taken at the school library and used the same as the text books in the school room.

Mr. Caywood and all the members of the Board of Education are subscribers to one or more county papers, and they know what is going on, but we do not believe all the teachers do. There are exceptions to this rule but the exceptions are mostly at the heads of the various schools. There is a reason. And, lastly, in conclusion, we desire to remind the teachers of Bourbon County schools that competent judges have said that The Bourbon News at $2.00 a year was a first-class investment.

OBLIGATION FACES CHRISTIAN CHURCHES

Must Christianize Reconstruction Forces.

METHODIST CENTENARY TASK

Great Convention at Columbus Emphasizes Far-Reaching Movement. Not Simply to Raise One Hundred Million Dollars.

Columbus, O. — (Special.) — "A world-wide program for Christian reconstruction."

This theme, considered the most far-reaching ever adopted by a modern Protestant church, brought together in a three days' convention over 4,000 Methodist ministers and laymen from the Cincinnati area at the Methodist Centenary convention last week. This area, one of 20 into which the country has been divided for this movement, includes Ohio, Kentucky and southern Indiana.

In striking language, representatives of many fields of world activity, painted the opportunity now facing the Christian churches to bring the gospel to hungry people of many lands and to intensify the work so as to meet the needs of the home field in America. Strong emphasis was placed upon the fact that the world is very different from what it was in 1914, and that a church program, seemingly adequate then, is wholly inadequate now.

"Facing as we do emergencies in America and Europe and in the rest of the world that simply will not wait, we are challenged to show whether or not we mean business about Christ's business," was the typical expression of Dr. Ralph S. Cushman of the Central New York conference.

Dr. L. B. Bowers, member of the national campaign committee of the Centenary, outlined a two-fold obligation facing the Christian churches. This obligation, he said, is:

First—The Christianization of the processes of reconstruction.
Second—The conservation and harnessing of spiritual forces generated through this world struggle to a program for the conquest of the world for democracy and righteousness.

To meet the demands of such a program, the Methodist church, through the Centenary, seeks:

To enroll at least 20 per cent of its membership as regular titheers;

To enroll an equal number of members as "intercessors," members who pledge themselves to make daily prayer for the evangelization of the world a vital part of their daily lives;

To so organize and intensify the life of each local church so that it may do a much more vital work in its own community;

To secure one hundred and sixteen million dollars in the next five years for the extension of vital religious work;

To secure much needed additional trained workers to meet the needs of the home and foreign field;

To extend the work so as to much more adequately take advantage of the opportunities presented to the Christian church.

"The Centenary answers the question how to bring the local church to the new spirit of consecration, through its four-fold program of the stewardship of prayer, of life, and intercession and education," said one of the speakers.

Great Service Flag.

One of the most striking incidents ever seen at a convention in Columbus occurred at the Centenary convention when a great service flag, commemorating the service of Methodist boys in the Cincinnati area, was borne across the stage by fifty veterans. The flag, 200 yards long and one yard wide, contained 31,090 stars, of which 1,090 were in gold. Mrs. Logan Feland of New York city, wife of the marines' captain who led the first charge after General Pershing's troops reached France, sang the "Star Spangled Banner," as the service flag was brought upon the stage.

"Such a sight as this is certainly a call to life service," said Bishop Warne of India.

Cincinnati Area Apportionment.

By a standing vote the convention gave enthusiastic approval to the large Centenary program. Resolutions adopted say:

"We accept Cincinnati area's apportionment (for the fund of $115,000,000) of $14,588,295 and, trusting in Jesus Christ as our Leader, we will put ourselves under the task of raising the apportionment and making the Centenary a success in the Cincinnati area."

"With our hearts deeply stirred by the noble sacrifice the 1,000 Methodist men of this area who have made the supreme sacrifice in behalf of human freedom and justice in the defense of this glorious land of ours, have made, and chosen in this hour of destiny to lead the world in the realization of the ideals of a Christian Democracy, we hereby pledge ourselves to this supreme undertaking of making Jesus Christ reign in the lives and hearts of all men."

ENJOYS MEAL OF MEAT AND POTATOES NOW

This Woman Couldn't Eat At All Before She Took Meritone.

My stomach was so out of order before I started taking Meritone that I couldn't eat a thing much, but now I can eat a big hearty meal of sausage and fried potatoes and enjoy it," said Mrs. Ava Moore, of 710 Twenty-seventh avenue, North Nashville.

"My appetite was mighty poor and I guess my system was just run down all over," Mrs. Moore continued.

"The best way to tell how much I have improved since taking Meritone is just to say that I feel like a new woman now."

"I can't describe how good it seems to be able to go to bed at night and sleep soundly and wake up in the morning feeling fine and ready for breakfast."

"I know Meritone has made me into a new woman and has helped me so much that I want others to know about it."

Meritone is the new tonic of real merit that folks who had influenza are advised to take to build up their systems and make their health robust. Meritone is also recommended for any disordered condition of the system such as stomach, liver or kidney trouble, catarrh, rheumatism, lack of appetite, sleeplessness and the like. You can get it at G. S. Varden & Son's.

LETTERS FROM BOURBON COUNTY SOLDIERS AND SAILORS

B. Clark Wilson, of Paris, who was wounded in air battle in France with a German airplane, sends The News a badge from the cap of the birdman who shot him with the terse comment: "Here's the badge of the German birdman who shot me in the leg. He got me but he will never get another." The letter to The News, which was written from the U. S. General Hospital at West Baden, Indiana, recently taken over by the Government, follows:

"U. S. General Hospital No. 35, West Baden, Indiana, Jan. 30, 1919. "I was glad to receive your message informing me that I am to get The News regularly. I wish to inform you that I have been receiving The News each week, through my father, who has been mailing it to me twice a week. Of course you did not know it, but do you think I would have been silent this long without getting The News? Certainly not. I'm glad that I am to be placed on the regular subscription list. Of course, The News has always been good, but since I have been back, it reads better than ever. Since I have been in bed so long it has been one of the few pleasures I have had to look forward to each week.

"My condition is somewhat better, and I am very much improved since I wrote last. I have undergone an operation and have had a new plaster of Paris cast put on. The cast I speak of begins at my neck and extends around my hips. I have had X-ray photographs taken lately and they show that my spine has about healed, and is doing finely. The wound in my leg is already healed, and it will not be long before I will be on my pins again. The right leg that has been useless so long, due to the double fracture of the spine is getting some life in it now. I am very hopeful, but the doctors tell me I will always have a stiff leg, and that I will have to wear a cast or splint belt for several years.

"But life is very sweet yet, and I count myself fortunate that the daisies are not growing over me. I am enclosing to you the cap badge of the 'birdman' that put the hole in my right leg. Shortly after he thought he had gotten me I really surprised him—and did I get him? I say I did, and took his cap badge for a little remembrance of his kindness. The badge or button tells the company and division he belonged to. Let my young friend, Barnett Winters, have a look at this badge and tell him that I am thinking of having a watch chain made of it if possible. The initials on the badge are 'P. J. I.' which indicates that my opponent was a member of one of the crack German flying corps. But if he is flying now, it is in a different country from either Germany or France, as he has gone over the long journey, and will never again take a shot at a good American.

"Well, hoping to receive The News regularly, and with my warmest regards to all the force, whom I count as being my best friends in Paris, I remain,

"Very Sincerely,

"B. CLARK WILSON

TOWN GROWTH BASED ON RURAL PROSPERITY.

The ambition of every town made up of live people is to grow and develop and prosper. Growth is the basic law of nature. When growth ceases, decay sets in.

We are forced to admit that there are conditions under which a town may be and is in a measure independent of the surrounding country, as to whether or not that territory is prosperous. But these instances are rare and not by any means the rule.

The United States is pre-eminently an agricultural nation. To-day she is literally undertaking to feed the world. To accomplish this gigantic task every resource must be utilized and developed to the uttermost. The soil must be made to yield as it has never before yielded, and the millions of acres of our domain that have heretofore lain fallow must be brought under cultivation.

And this brings us to the subject of this article.

The great majority of American towns are DIRECTLY DEPENDENT

FOR THEIR GROWTH AND PROSPERITY ON THE SURROUNDING COUNTRY. They advance or retard in exact proportion as the surrounding territory develops or deteriorates.

The town, then, that has an ambition to advance, to build up, spread out and prosper, should, first of all, devote its energies to the fullest possible development of the community from which it draws sustenance. This not merely from a standpoint of benevolence or philanthropy, but as a measure of pure self-interest.

To demonstrate the truth of this assertion, one has but to observe the number of towns in this country that are really overgrown—developed out of all proportion to the surrounding country. The growth has been a mushroom growth, with no enduring foundation, and as soon as the general prosperity of the country has a slight decline, these are the first towns to suffer. This was particularly noticeable in the old boom days of the '80's and '90's when many towns sprang up without any other excuse than the ambition of some syndicate to unload a piece of property on the public. The wrecks of many such towns still mar the landscape in all parts of our country.

The town that would insure its growth based on a solid foundation, should make the development of the surrounding territory its first consideration. The establishment of a saw-mill, opening of a rock quarry, or a limekiln, the development of any and every industry of the rural districts is of as vital interest to the dwellers in the town as to the parties directly concerned therein. The organization of farmers' clubs, girls' canning clubs boys' pig clubs and corn club—all these as vitally affect the town people as the country folks, because they are factors in the general prosperity from which the town must draw its enduring strength. A poor road leading from any community to the town is as much a matter of concern to the town as to the community affected. The county fair, while of incalculable benefit to the farming interests, is equally beneficial to the town.

And thus it goes through the entire list of community interests. The enduring prosperity of the town dwellers bears an exact ratio to that of the rural population. Their interests are inextricably interwoven. It is, however, far easier for the farmer to dispense with the backing of the town people than for the latter to ignore his support.

We have written thus plainly with the hope that we might perhaps cause some to view the national problems in a national light. This is an era of development. The world is calling for the best that America give it. Thousands of our men are flocking to the great manufacturing centers. Not only must war material be furnished, but all the arts of peace must be supplied.

But the farms are pre-eminently the great food storehouse of the land. The farmer must feed us if we are fed, and without his product all other branches of industry become impotent. His calling is, has always been, and always will be, the bed-rock foundation of our national life. Upon the farm must we build our prosperity, and by the prosperity of the farm must we stand or fall.

To the millions of dwellers in the cities and towns we wish we could get this message: "Give your first and best efforts to building a solid, enduring rural prosperity, developing its every interest to the utmost, and all the adverse powers of earth can not prevent your sharing as an equal partner in that prosperity."

MODERN HEALTH CRUSADE BY NATIONAL TUBERCULOSIS ASSOCIATION.

Crusaders, knights, pages, squires, tournaments—this form of mediaeval chivalry has revived in the Modern Health Crusade which is an organized movement of the National Tuberculosis Association. Junior Red Cross members will start out on this crusade in February.

Through the schools, the American Red Cross with the National Tuberculosis Association, is conducting a national, State and local campaign for the improvement of personal health and community sanitation. The Council of National Defense and the United States Public Health Service are co-operating in the movement.

"Health Chores" faithfully performed for two weeks entitle any school child to enter the ranks of the Modern Health Crusades as a page. To be a squire, and wear a squire's badge, three weeks of health chores must be added to the two weeks already performed. And fifteen weeks (incidentally sufficient practice to acquire good habits thoroughly) bring the title of knight banneret and a gold pin.

Folders, with a space to check each chore each day keep the record at home. A Roll of Health Knighthood hangs in the school-room, where the names of the candidates are enrolled and their rank indicated by stars as they earn their titles.

The trophies for the victors in the National Tournament are pennants presented jointly by the National Tuberculosis Association and the American Red Cross.

Women Soldiers in China.
China had women soldiers long before they were known in Russia. During the Tae Ping rebellion, 1850, women as well as men served in the ranks. In Nanking, in 1853, an army of 500,000 women was recruited. They were divided into brigades of 13,000 each and were commanded by women officers.

THINGS TO WORRY ABOUT.

The Reed "bone dry" law is constitutional says the Supreme Court, and it is unlawful for one to take intoxicating liquors from another state into dry territory, even for personal use. You may, however, buy liquor in wet territory in your own state and take it into dry territory in that state, for your personal use, for the present. It will soon be so that you cannot buy it or transport it anywhere.

FEBRUARY COURT DAY.

There was an unusually large crowd in Paris yesterday in attendance on February Court Day. There was considerable live stock on the market, and a large number of mules and horses changed ownership at good prices. Merchants reported good trade and collections good. Late in the afternoon a drizzling rain set in, driving everyone to shelter.

At the sale of mules conducted by Mr. John Marr at the stables of Caywood & McClintock thirty-one head sold for an average of $315 to $325 per head. One pair was sold to Tennessee parties for a record price of $1,000. There was a good crowd in attendance and good prices were realized all along the line.

ASKS FAYETTE COURT TO RAISE WIDOW'S BOND.

Attorneys Robert Talbott, and Judge Denis Dundon, of Paris, and Robert Franklin, of Frankfort, appeared before County Judge Bullock, in the Fayette County Court, Monday, and asked that the bond of Mrs. Emma Trent Thomas, widow of Robt. L. Thomas, a former resident of Paris, be increased, that surety be required in her bond, and that an inventory of the estate of her husband be filed. County Judge Bullock set Monday, January 20, as the date he would rule on the motion. Mrs. Thomas will attend the proceedings, being summoned by the Court.

Since the death of Mr. Thomas, who was a son of the late Capt. Jas. M. Thomas, who made Paris his home for nearly a lifetime, litigation has been pending regarding a land deal he had made with his sister, Mrs. Mary Thomas Ireland, wife of Mr. John Ireland, also a former Paris resident. According to the allegations Mr. Thomas purchased from his sister an exceedingly low price timber land in some of the mountain counties and then sold them shortly afterward for an enormous profit. Mrs. Ireland then took the case before the court to obtain her share of the profit, claiming she did not know the value of the land at the time she sold it. The Court of Appeals ruled that she was entitled to one-fourth of the profits derived from the sale of the lands. As no inventory of the estate has ever been filed by Mrs. Thomas following the death of her husband requirements to have this done were taken by the attorneys for the plaintiffs Monday.

HARRIS & SPEAKES

PARIS AND LEXINGTON HIGH BREAK EVEN ON GAMES.

The Y. M. C. A. gymnasium was comfortably filled Friday night with basket ball devotees who witnessed a fast but rather rough game between the boys' teams of the Paris and Lexington High School, in which the Lexington boys were returned victors by a score of 37 to 20. This was the third successive victory for the Lexington team, they having previously defeated the Louisville High School team and the Georgetown High School team in turn.

Bill King at forward and Capt. Smith at guard secured the most points for the Lexington team, with fifteen and eight respectively, while for the Paris team the best work was done at forward by Roberts and Rice at center.

In the preliminary game between the girls' teams of the Paris High School and the Lexington High School team, the Paris team won out by the narrow margin of one point, the score standing at the end of the game 20 to 19.

(Contributed)

Friday night at the Y. M. C. A. the Paris High School Girls games were played in Paris. The game was fast and intensely interesting from the start.

The team work of the Paris girls, their good passing, and goal shooting reflected brilliantly the splendid coaching of Miss Helen Bannister, director of Physical Education for girls in the Paris schools.

It seems now that the Paris girls team has a straight road to the State Championship in high school basket ball this year.

's Bannister is working on a plan which when perfected will have much to do with standardizing athletics for girls in the Kentucky high schools.

The boys' game was by far the best seen here this year on any team. Work of Rice and Roberts was the best seen here this year on any team.

The Lexington High School team is made up of men, all large and fast looks much more like a college team than a high school, and their defeat of the Paris team was not by superior playing but more weight, height and age. The Paris team made the highest score that has been made against Lexington this year, Louisville and Owensboro both having been defeated by Lexington with a lower score.

We will hand it to Lexington High School, that she has one of the best teams ever developed in the state, but we hope after a few more years in high school that the Kings and Smiths will either go to work or be passed on to college.

Mr. Goldsmith, Physical director at the Y. M. C. A., and the City School has done excellent work with his team this year, and with chances even rarely loses a game. Each week shows improvement under his coaching.

Next Friday the teams will both be away from home, the girls in Winchester, and the boys in Richmond.

The attendance at the games increases each week and enthusiasm grows.

Every one regretted the absence of Miss Porter, our cheer leader, who was away on account of the illness of her mother. We sincerely hope her mother who is so extremely ill may soon be well.

In the absence of Miss Porter, Miss Lillie Kenney, sub cheer leader, took charge and extracted the noise from the crowd, and put the "pep" into the occasion.

Miss Kenney makes a splendid substitute.

The game played Friday night at the Y. M. C. A. between the Paris and Lexington girls' teams was one of the best games witnessed on the Y floor this season. The line-up was as follows: Baldwin, center; Harper and Elder, forwards; Alexander and Capt. McClintock, guards.

At the end of the first half the score stood 7 to 6 in favor of the Paris team, and five minutes before the game closed the Paris girls tied the score by McClintock throwing a field goal. After this there was simply a good time for everybody, but Paris furnished the best fight, and the game closed with the score standing 20 to 19 in favor of Paris, amid the wild shouts of the spectators.

It was a star game for the whole team. The forwards did splendid work, in spite of the fact that Lexington had rather tall guards. The Paris centers is young in the tactics of basketball, but she showed her real strength Friday night. The guards were trustworthy and kept the ball away from the Lexington field and hurled it back to the Paris goal.

THE FAIR.

THE DOG, THE CHILDREN THE SOLDIER AND YOU.

In a quiet street of Paris, a little girl of ten or twelve was leading a frightened little boy by the hand and a frantic yellow dog by the leash. The dog of the dear and lovable variety called mongrel, was demonstrating his joy in life by affectionate bounds and leaps; the children patted his head gently, but walked along without saying a word. There were trees at regular intervals along the street. Near one of these they stopped and hesitated. I could hear them talking softly. "Come" said the little girl, "we'll tie him here; and surely when the American soldiers pass, one of them will see him, love him and take him. They will understand by the card that is on his neck that we had to lose him on purpose and why—and you must not cry, Jean-Pierre, you are the man now, you know, and one must be reasonable. There are not enough pennies to get soup and bread for the five of us and milk for baby George; as Mamma says we cannot keep Medor. You know how hard Mamma has worked since Papa was killed and she is so tired she cannot earn enough to even feed us all properly. There, be good."

"Where is your handkerchief? It seems that they are gentle, those Americans. They have good hearts and they always help the unhappy ones."

An American soldier did pass by. He saw the dog, aid on a little piece of cardboard tied to its neck the quaint words in childish handwriting: "This is Medor, our pet dog. Please dear American soldier, take care of him, we can't any more."

The soldier had no use for the dog, and did not know what to do with it. But the children's trust in America he could not resist and he adopted the dog.

He would have liked to do more—and take care of the children too. The few words had brought back to his mind a big family in a village where he was billeted, six little children and an old, old grandmother. And to support them all, only the mother, a soldier's widow, who in the midst of her sorrow for the man who would never come back, was making the bravest efforts to feed her little flock, and in spite of all her courage could not earn enough to give them sufficient food and clothes.

But there was no address on the cardboard tied to the dog's neck.

YOU who are that brave boy's wife, or mother, or sweetheart, will you please his work and adopt the little children of those brave comrades their lives for all, and whose children have not their daily bread.

Ten cents is so easily, and or, how often spent on ice-creams. The same ten cents can help get food for a little child for a day.

Will you not share the profits, that this war has brought to you, with one of these poor little hungry children? Make some crushed mothers life a little brighter, and a little Fatherless Child of France, love you as his American God Parent. They do love us, as we learn by their grateful letters. Think of France! Compare their conditions with ours today.

THE DERVISHES.

A feature of Persian life which illustrates the simple and superstitious nature of the people of the mid-east is their tolerance of the dervishes. These weird, gypsy-like beggars infest the cities and annoy the village folk in passing from one place to another, according to their vows of itinerancy.

These are not the whirling dervishes of circus fame. Whirling would be too exuberant form of worship for the members of this most ancient leisure class. Their greatest exertion consists of walking slowly and blowing a horn to announce their presence.

The dervish of Persia is known by his begging bowl, conical cap, animal skin cape, and club. The weapon which is usually a stick driven through with nails, is carried conspicuously. In fact, it seems unpleasantly ready for use when its owner calmly demands tribute. It is true that there is small danger of its use, even if aims are refused, but a refusal, however polite and apologetic, is sure to arouse the wrath of the dervish. His vocabulary may be unintelligible, but the significance of his threats and prophecies is usually understood. Fellow citizens of the dervish tribe prefer to make a gift at any cost, in order to avoid having the wrath of heaven called down upon them in the mysterious language of an experienced heaven-invoker.

The dervish makes himself useful to the community honored by his presence by telling fortunes and stories, reciting prayers, selling charms, and even curing the sick by blowing his sacred breath on them—all in return for cash which he turns over to his chief after deducting a living wage.

SHOE CONSERVATION

W. H. Kelley, a lumber salesman, of Omaha, found Neolin Soles so tough and durable that one pair of soles served on a second pair of uppers after the first pair of uppers had worn out in ten months of hard walking.

And he says, "Those same soles will stand another ten months of constant daily wear."

This is unusual service even for Neolin Soles but Mr. Kelley's experience should indicate to you a method of cutting down those rising shoe bills you have to meet. Simply make sure the new shoes you buy are Neolin-soled and have worn shoes repaired with these soles which are scientifically made to be comfortable, waterproof and exceedingly long-wearing. They are made by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio, who also make Wingfoot Heels, guaranteed to outwear any other heels.

YOU CAN'T FIND ANY DANDRUFF. AND HAIR STOPS COMING OUT.

Save your hair! Make it thick, wavy, glossy and beautiful at once.

Try as you will, after an application of Danderine, you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first, but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair a strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing, your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; and incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment. A small trial bottle will double the beauty of your hair.

SCORE DIE IN FILM EXCHANGE EXPLOSION.

Between 15 and 20 persons, mostly women and girls, were killed and more than a score others injured at Pittsburgh, Pa., when a terrific explosion wrecked a film exchange building at 804 Penn avenue, in the downtown section of the city. Eight bodies have been recovered from the ruins, and firemen, working on the interior of the structure, report that many other bodies are buried under the wreckage.

The building in which the explosion occurred is a six-story structure and many of those injured received their hurts by jumping from the upper floors.

Many firemen were injured, two when an extension ladder collapsed, and others by flying glass and falling wreckage.

William Bennett, chief of the fire department, went through the ruined structure and estimated the loss at $1,000,000.

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat or the disease. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions, and in order to cure it you must take an internal remedy. Hall's Catarrh Medicine is taken internally and acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. Hall's Catarrh Medicine was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years. It is composed of some of the best tonics known, combined with some of the best blood purifiers. The perfect combination of the ingredients in Hall's Catarrh Medicine is what produces such wonderful results in catarrhal conditions. Send for testimonials free.

THE TEST OF MERIT.

Paris People are Given Convincing Proof.

No better test of an article can be made than a test of time and this is particularly true of a kidney remedy. Doan's Kidney Pills have stood this test and stood it well. What better proof of the merits of this remedy could you demand, than the statement of a Paris resident who used it successfully and tells of lasting results.

Read the following: Geo. McCandles, Second street, says: "My kidneys were inactive and I had backaches. Doan's Kidney Pills put a stop to all the troubles and gave me complete relief." (Statement given January 27, 1912) (NO TROUBLE SINCE.)

Over fourteen years later on November 9th, 1916 Mr. McCandles said: "I haven't had any need of a kidney remedy since I last endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. I consider myself permanently cured."

Price 60 cts at all dealers. Don't simply ask for kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. McCandles had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y. (adv.)

TO SEND GERMAN CANNON TO AMERICA.

Most of the German artillery, as well as fifty or sixty of the German airplanes which are being turned over to American forces, will be sent to the United States. Plans are being worked out to distribute the cannon to cities about the country as gifts of the government.

Soon after the army of occupation reached German soil requests for cannon began arriving from American cities, many of these requests being sent by cable. Among the guns turned over are two heavy 42 centimeter howitzers with which day after day, the Germans used to pound Verdun and the region where the big American naval guns were located. Nearly 200 cannon of various caliber have arrived, but so far only a few have been accepted, and most of them have some missing parts. It is understood, however, that the parts have been shipped from Germany.

One of each type of airplanes in use in the German army will be sent to Washington to be added to the collection of relics being made by the war department.

DREADFUL COUGH CURED.

A severe cold is often followed by a rough cough for which Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has proven especially valuable. Mrs. F. W. Olson, Marysville, Mo., writes: "About two years ago my little boy Jean caught a severe cold and coughed dreadfully for days. I tried a number of cough medicines but nothing did him any good until I gave him Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It relieved his cough right away and before he had finished taking one bottle he was cured. I think it is just fine for children."

111,688 DEATHS CAUSED BY INFLUENZA WAVE.

The influenza epidemic, which swept the country during the latter part of last year, caused 111,688 deaths in the forty-six largest cities and increased the combined death rates for those communities in 1918 to 19.6 per thousand, according to statistics made public by the Census Bureau. Total figures for the country were not available.

Baltimore with 26.8 per thousand, and Nashville with 26.4 had the highest rates of the registration cities, while St. Paul, with 13.9 and Minneapolis and Grand Rapids with fourteen each, had the lowest. Grand Rapids showed the smallest increase, the death rate for 1917 having been 13.1.

There were 442,374 deaths in the forty-six cities, the estimated population of forty-two which aggregated 20,514,520. There was no estimate of population for the other four. Deaths from influenza totaled 69,436, with 42,149 from pneumonia.

What Canals May Accomplish.

It is possible that by the construction of canals we may yet see the day when there will be great fleets away up in the country where once upon a time the highland clans held sway, where Rob Roy Macgregor raided for cattle and fought with the Clan Macfarlane, and where there is still the glamor that was thrown over it by the genius of Sir Walter Scott. If so, it will be one of the most remarkable transformations in the history of any country.

GETTING RID OF COLDS.

The easiest way to get rid of a cold is to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This preparation has been in use for many years and its value fully proven. No matter what remedy you use, however, care must be taken not to contract another cold before you have recovered from the first one, and there is serious danger in this. A man of middle age or older should go to bed until fully recovered. It is better to stay in bed three days at the start than three weeks later on.

Technical Description

Genco Light

Description of Engine.

The Genco Light engine has been designed and brought out especially for the duty for which it is used. The first models of the Genco engine have been in operation in the U. S. for over 7 years and are passed the experimental stage at this time. The engine is of the 4 cycle, top valve type. The cooling employed is water, but it will be noted that a radiator is used, which means that only 2 gallons of cooling water are necessary. After those 7 years of tests and experiments it has been found necessary to abandon the air cooled construction, which gave fairly good results for the first two years, but which is not reliable after that time. The crank shaft of the Genco Light engine is counter balanced, and has its fly wheel inside of the crank case. It is probably the only engine in the world having this construction, which is more expensive, but which avoids vibration. The crank shaft runs on white metal bearings of ample size. In fact a study of the size of those bearings on the crank shaft will convince anybody of the reliable character of Genco Light construction. The connecting rod bearing on the crank shaft is 1 3/4 inches in diameter by 2 3/8 inches long. The main bearings on the crank shaft are 1 1/2 inches in diameter and 3 inches long, which makes a total bearings projected area on the main bearings of 9 square inches.

The only manufacturers of lighting plants in the world making their own engines, generators and batteries. Which means we will be in business when others will be gone.

CHANGES IN PERSONNEL OF APPELLATE COURT

Four Judges of the Court of Appeals took the oath of office at Frankfort for full terms. Huston Quin, of Louisville, was the only new Judge to take his place on the bench. The other Judges were re-elected. Judge Quin takes the place of Judge Shackelford Miller, and is a young man and very highly regarded as a lawyer, not only by the people of Louisville, but throughout the State. He is one of the youngest men to take his place on the bench; in fact, one of the youngest ever elected to the office of Appellate Judge.

Other Judges to be sworn in were Judge W. E. Settle, Judge Gus Thomas and Judge Ernest Clarke. Judge Settle is entering on his third full term on the bench. He holds the record in this respect, as he is the only Judge of the Appellate Court ever to be elected three times in succession for full terms. He has served continuously on the bench for twenty-six years, ten years as Circuit Judge and sixteen years as Appellate Court Judge. If he lives to serve out his term he will have served on the bench continuously for thirty-four years. Judge Thomas is succeeding himself, and Judge Clarke succeeds himself. Both were first elected to fill out unexpired terms.

There was a very large crowd present at the opening of Court. Judge John D. Carroll, one of Kentucky's most eminent jurists, who has served on the bench for many years, became Chief Justice of the Appellate Court. Although Judge Carroll has been on the bench for a number of years his time to serve as Chief Justice did not come until now, and he has realized his ambition in the judicial department of the government. It is probable that he will announce his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor in a short time. He has already sent letters to friends throughout the State announcing his intention to seek the nomination. His supporters are enthusiastic about his chances.

"RE-EDUCATION OF CRIPPLES."

Mrs. Virgil D. Chandler, of Paris, was the principal speaker recently before the Women's Club at Columbus, Ohio, taking for her subject, "The Re-education of Cripples." Mrs. Chandler was the originator of the idea of helping crippled and disabled soldiers to learn a trade or secure an education, so that they might be self-supporting after the war. The movement has now assumed nationwide support, and is being actively pushed through the country by Mrs. Chandler.

In this issue, at the request of the Red Cross and the army and navy authorities, as well as the Home Service and Civilian Relief branches of the Red Cross, THE NEWS publishes the following text explaining what is to be done to help the maimed soldier:

There has been issued in large quantity for general distribution, by the Red Cross Institute for Crippled and Disabled Men, a statement on the provision being made by the various government departments for the returning disabled soldier or sailor.

The statement is addressed as much to the public as to the ex-service men themselves, for it has been found in the experience of the allied nations that public understanding and appreciation is essential to the success of any government program aimed at the restoration of the injured to self-support.

The statement entitled "Facts of Interest to the Disabled Soldier and Sailor" has been approved as to accuracy by the various government departments concerned.

The military and naval authorities will provide him, not only with ordinary medical care, but also with special treatment to put him in the best condition possible to return to work.

While he is under treatment in reconstruction hospitals maintained by the Surgeon-General, U. S. Army, and the Surgeon-General, U. S. Navy, he will be offered educational advantages, which will promote his recovery, put his time to good use, and improve his chances for the future.

It has lost an arm or a leg, a temporary artificial limb will be furnished him at as early a date as possible, while he is still in the hospital. Later a permanent artificial limb of the most modern type will be provided by the Bureau of War Risk Insurance. It will be kept in repair and replaced when worn out, as long as he lives, at government expense.

After completion of treatment and discharge from the army or navy, if he remains permanently disabled, the Bureau of War Risk Insurance will pay him until the end of his life disability compensation, which is intended as an aid in working out his future plans.

This compensation for disability is paid whether or not he has taken out a policy of War Risk Insurance.

After discharge from the service, if he is disabled to any considerable degree—so as to be entitled to compensation for disability—he is offered training for a skilled job in which his injury will not prevent his earning good wages. Experience of our Allies has shown this to be entirely practicable.

Compensation for permanent disability will not be reduced or in any way be affected by what he may be able to earn. It is determined by his physical injury alone. He may have earned before enlistment $20 a week and be able after disability, by reason of having taken a course of training, to earn $40 a week, yet his compensation will be paid him just the same.

Training after discharge will be provided him at government expense by the Federal Board for Vocational Education, charged by Congress with the responsibility of restoring him to self-support.

During the course of training, in order that he may have no financial worries, he will receive either the same pay as during his last month in the service or his compensation for disability, whichever is larger. His family will continue to receive the same allotment and allowance as when he was in the service.

It is greatly to his advantage to avail himself of all opportunities of training, either before or after discharge. While it may be easy now for even a disabled man to get a well-paid, but temporary job, the labor situation will be different in the years after the war when normal conditions return. If he wants to be independent and self-supporting in future he must prepare now so that later on he will be a skilled worker and his services will be in demand.

When training is completed the government will find for him a desirable job. This service will be performed for him by the Federal Board for Vocational Education in co-operation with the United States Employment Service.

During the period of training and after, the American Red Cross, through its home service sections, will look after the needs of his family, and advise on any points in connection with which it can be helpful.

After he returns home and enters on employment the home service section of the American Red Cross will stand by as a big brother to help in any possible way to make successful his change from the world of the soldier back to the world of industry and commerce. In all this work the Red Cross recognizes the leadership of the government.

Employers are giving careful thought to the selection of jobs in which his services can be used to the best advantage—in which he can be paid good wages and earn them. The employers realize that what he wants is not charity, but the opportunity of self-support.

Labor unions are giving thought to the ways in which disabled men may best be replaced in their trades, and are prepared to assist the readjustment to the greatest possible degree.

The people of the United States are resolved that he shall have every advantage within their resource and every chance to make good and get back on his feet.

America is looking to her men disabled in the splendid job overseas to "carry on" after their return home, to continue into civilian life the standards of self-respect, honor and courage of the A. E. F. She is looking to her disabled men to rank among the most useful and respected member of the community.

DON'T SCOLD MOTHER! THE CROSS CHILD IS BILLIOUS & FEVERISH.

Look at tongue! If coated, clean little stomach, liver, bowels.

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold breath bad, throat sore, doesn't care to eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach ache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give spoonful of "California Syrup of Figs" and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit laxative," and mother can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little insides clean and sweet.

Keep it handy mother! A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeits sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup. (Adv.)

Dietetic Habits.

Some people seem to think that a vegetarian is a curiosity. A rough calculation shows that the population of the world, now estimated approximately at 1,600,000,000, is said to be divided as to dietetic habits about as follows: Strict vegetarians, 250,000,000; practically vegetarians, but eating a little fish or flesh, 450,000,000; eating meat about once a week (on high days and holidays), 500,000,000; eating meat daily and sometimes more than once a day, 400,000,000.

THAT TERRIBLE HEADACHE.

Do you have periodic attacks of headache accompanied by sickness of the stomach or vomiting, a swollen skin and dull eyes? If so, you can get quick relief by taking Chamberlain's Tablets as directed for biliousness, and you may be able to avoid these attacks if you observe the directions with each package.

EIGHTY-FOURTH DIVISION ON ITS WAY HOME

The 84th Division, in which are several hundred men from Bourbon county, by the local draft board, is returning to this country from France on one or more of the five transports which have sailed for the United States recently, according to an Associated Press report just received.

This division is composed of troops from Kentucky, Ohio and Indiana, trained at Camp Sherman and Camp Taylor and from this division the following are returning: Twenty-seven officers and 288 men from Divisional Headquarters; 309th Headquarters Detachment Train; 325th, 326th, 327th Machine Gun Battalions; 333rd, 334th, 335th, 336th Infantry Regiments; 309th Sanitary Train and Headquarters; 334th and 336th Field Hospitals, and Ambulance Companies, 334th and 336th. All of these troops are assigned to Camp Taylor for demobilization.

This is the second report in the past few days of returning soldiers from Paris and Bourbon county, and it is expected that these men will be discharged immediately upon their arrival at Camp Taylor.

Loyalty is a most admirable trait, but even the billposters won't always stick up for each other.

THE TOBACCO MARKETS.

A new record was established on the Paris market Saturday, when Brooks and Snapp, farmers, sold a crop of 13,900 pounds of tobacco in the barn and only partially stripped out to Charles Doyle, of Bourbon, and Charles Lang, of Fayette, for the unprecedented price of 67 1/2 cents for the ground up. Wagers have been made that the crop when sold on the breaks will average 80 cents or better.

The week closed Friday on the Paris tobacco market sales totaling 1,483,715 pounds, divided as follows: Bourbon Tobacco Warehouse Company, 1,091,015 pounds, for an average of $44.92; Independent Warehouse Company, 392,700 pounds, for an average of $47.29. For the season the Bourbon Company has sold 5,207,110 pounds for an average of $40.98, and the Independent Company 2,189,630 pounds for an average of $39.16. The total amount sold on the market for the season amounts to 7,396,740 pounds. Receipts at the close of the week had dwindled perceptibly, owing to the tobacco not being in case, making it impossible for growers to strip or handle it for the market.

The Bourbon Tobacco Warehouse Co. sold at their sale yesterday a total of 104,925 pounds of tobacco for a money value of $51,033.08, a floor average of $48.62. The quality of the offerings was only medium, with the market strong on all grades. Some of the best crop averages follow:

Palmeter & McClain, 1,065 pounds, average $67.58; Gus Aldridge, 2,185 pounds, average $73.34; Palmeter & Haney, 2,485 pounds, average $61.71; Howard & Woodford, 1,330 pounds, average $63.35; E. The Bourbon Tobacco Warehouse Company sold Friday, a total of 201,000 pounds of tobacco for $88,409.20, an average of $44.06 per hundred pounds. The following crop averages were reported:

CONVERTED FURNACES NOT SUITABLE FOR NATURAL GAS

In issuing an order that all wastage of natural gas is to be reported to the Government, the National Fuel Administration pointed to Louisville as an example of a city where wasteful practices in the use of this commodity were indulged in.

When the supply of natural gas failed at Louisville last winter, says the Fuel Administration, it was found that 1 9-10 per cent. of the consumers were using 30 7-10 per cent. of the natural gas. This was due in part to the consumption of natural gas in converted or coal furnaces, which, according to fuel officials, is a wholly improper appliance for burning natural gas.

The Public Utilities Commission in the different cities are now recognizing this, they point out, and are prohibiting the use of natural gas in appliances not primarily constructed for such use.

The order which has just been issued by the Fuel Administration reads as follows:

"It shall be deemed wasteful to burn natural gas by means of flammable open lights; to burn natural gas for the purpose of outside lighting during daylight hours; to burn natural gas in inefficient appliances; to burn more natural gas than is reasonably necessary for the purpose which it is intended to serve; or to consume natural gas in any other manner which is not reasonably efficient and economical. Licensees are hereby directed to report to the United States Fuel Administration all cases where consumers persist in the wasteful use of natural gas."

DO DOGS EVADE THE BLUE GRASS SECTION?

The new dog license law is keeping part of the Agricultural Department busy these days supplying tags, licenses and information.

County Clerks are asking for hundreds more tags than the County Tax Commissioners reported dogs last year, but aside from Clark county these requests are limited to Western and Eastern Kentucky counties.

Central Kentucky and the Bluegrass appear to be comparatively free from dogs, judging from modest reports made by the clerks.

County Clerks in many instances apparently have misconstrued the law and believe license tags cannot be issued after January 1. The licenses can be issued at any time, and the Clerks have nothing to do with the penalty for failure to secure licenses.

That is the Sheriff's duty and for the first year they are urged to be lenient, provided delinquents secure their licenses when warned.

Construction of the provision that dogs running at large, not chaperoned by their owners or keepers, can be taken up or killed, is causing some trouble.

The purpose of the provision, it is explained, is to prevent the running at large of dogs which might destroy property or injure livestock.

A dog in town for instance, simply "taking the air" and attending to his own business, is not game for any officer, provided the dog wears the tag.

Curfew sounds for the dog, however, at sundown, and from that time until sunup he must keep within bounds, else the "goblins" will get him.

BUREAU OF CENSUS ISSUES TOBACCO STATEMENT.

The Department of Commerce through its Bureau of Census has made public its official statement as required by the Cantrill Tobacco Law showing the number of pounds of leaf tobacco in the hands of the manufacturers and dealers in the United States.

This report is very encouraging from the standpoint of the tobacco grower and thoroughly justifies the high market which is prevailing especially on the Burley type of tobacco. The Cantrill Tobacco Law requires sworn reports made by every manufacturer and dealer and the reports made on January 1st show that the stocks of tobacco of all types grown in the United States are practically the same as last year, but the report further shows that so far as the white Burley stocks are concerned there is a tremendous shortage of Burley tobacco.

The report just issued shows that the manufacturers and dealers have in stock fifty million pounds less of Burley tobacco than they had on Jan. 1st, 1918. In fact, during the seven years that the Cantrill Tobacco Law has been in force, the stocks of Burley Tobacco are greatly less than they have been at any time since the law has been in effect.

The statement just issued shows that the manufacturers and dealers on January 1st had only 13,000,000 pounds of Burley on hand, whereas on January 1st, 1918 they had 177,000,000 pounds, and on January 1st, 1917 had 188,000,000 pounds, so it is very evident that the demand by the consumers of tobacco has been steadily increasing for the Burley type and consequently the stocks in the hands of the manufacturers and dealers have been steadily decreasing until their stocks are lower than ever in the history of the tobacco market. This makes it very evident that the high prices now being paid for Burley tobacco will continue, and in fact it would not be surprising if prices went still higher.

The Cantrill Tobacco law has been in effect now seven years and the statements made by the Bureau of Census under that law are accepted by the entire tobacco trade of the United States as being thoroughly correct, and the statement issued is certainly very encouraging to the growers of tobacco in the United States and especially to the growers of the Burley type.
